

This course deals with the scientific study for human behavior within the learning situations and the procedures, which used in behavior modification, which relates to the applications at the principles learning in behavior modification.