

The course examines in depth some issues of Arabic language curricula and methods of teaching. It deals with the theories of language acquisition and the development of language skills the latest trends in the preparation of the language curriculum, computer language teaching, and the meta-cognition strategies a in teaching language.