

This course aims at providing students with knowledge concerning process of development and Growth, which include principles, stages of Growth and the methods of education during deferent stages of development.