

This course includes program and curriculum concepts, principles of preparing a curriculum, and types of programs, the course also focuses on making programs for the gifted, the principles and contents of such programs, the needed factors to prepare them, and the stages of the preparation process. this is associated with a practical work in which students are directed to associated to acquire the needed skills to prepare develop, or modify such programs.