

This course introduced students to different statistical tests in testing hypothesis . the topice to be discussed include correlation , regression, analysis of variance procedures, and some nonparametric tests.